Mary is being interviewed as part of a survey to know what teenagers think will happen in the future.

Marco: thanks for answering our survey on the phone. We are quite interested in knowing what young people think about the future. First question:

In your opinion, what changes will there be:

Mary: Well, there will be changes in several aspects. First, changes in eating habits.

Marco: Mm! Is this the most important ?

Mary: I don't know. But the world's weather will change, too.

Marco: And in the third place. What will happen?

Mary: I think there will be another world war.

Marco: You are very pessimistic, but may be that's true.

Marco: And what about you : What changes will you have in twenty years time?

Mary: I will probably be married, but not divorced, and with two or three young teenagers.
